HISTORY OF MILTON CEMETERY.

THE Trustees of the Cemetery have gathered from the Town Records, and from various sources, the following facts and documents, affording a full and authentic History of the Cemetery ; beginning ten years after the incorporation of the Town (1672), and extending to the year 1883.

In order to preserve these statements in a connected form it is decided to insert them here ; retaining in all cases the ancient phrases and spelling.

As no movement seems to have been made to secure a common Burial Place in Milton until ten years after the incorporation of the Town, it follows that those who resided within the limits of "Unquity" [a contraction of Unquityquisset, the old Indian name of Milton] before and after incorporation, must have buried their dead in Dorchester, or by common consent have appropriated one or more places for this purpose within their own limits.

At this time, there doubtless were settlements at different points along the principal roads, and several hundred inhabitants. Twelve years after incorporation, the Records give one hundred and twenty-five tax-payers, from which may be inferred, a population of from four to eight hundred or more ; it is hardly probable that their only place of burial was the distant cemetery in Dorchester. The supposition is, that the inhabitants had been using the field of Reedman [afterwards Redman] for this purpose, and thus were led to fix upon this place as the common Burial Ground. This is the belief of some of our oldest citizens.

The first notice found in the Records respecting the "Burying Ground" is as follows:

"The 24 Feby. 1672. Robert Reedman was allowed to be payed out of the towne Rate tene shillings to pay for forty rods of Land for the Burying Place apprised and staked out by Anthony Gulliver, William Blake, Robert Babeock. Robert Reedman being present and consenting thereto—and was agreed betwixed the Towne and Robert Reedman that the towne should fence out this forty rods of land, with a sufficient stone wall, within two years, from Robert Reedman's land." (Town Records, vol. i. page 1.)

The above mentioned lot was about six rods in width on the road, and extended back about seven rods to the rear, or southerly side of the range of Tombs now in the central part of the ground, the most westerly Tomb in the range being in the south-westerly angle of the Lot. These Tombs are the oldest in the ground, and are supposed to have been built about the year 1719, the town having voted at the March meeting of that year, "That Capten John Billing shal have liberty to build a tomb in our Burying Place at the Direction of the Selectmen."

The ministerial Tomb was probably built in 1729; it having been voted at the March meeting of that year, "That Mr. Oxenbrig Thacher should have liberty to build a Tomb in our burying Place for the Rever^d Mr. Peter Thacher his Father deceased, and that Lieut. Henry Vose and Mr. Benjamin Fenno should order the place for said Tomb where there may be convenient room."

This Tomb was not built on the Reedman Lot. At, or previous to, this time a small addition was made on the easterly side, where the Side Avenue and Ministerial Tomb now are, by taking some ten or twelve rods from the adjoining land at that time owned by Samuel Henshaw; but of this there is no record.

As early as 1699 attempts were made to enlarge the Burying Place; and in that year a committee was chosen—"to treat with any person that shall appeire to be the tru owener of the burying place fild as it is commonly called, for the obtaining an addition of land necessary to enlarge our burying place, or to treat of a price for the whole tracte, and to make their return to the Town at the next town meeting."

The "burying place fild" is supposed to be all that part of the Amory Lot purchased of C. Breek and T. Hollis, Jr., which lies northerly of an old line of wall where the land begins to slope off to the swamp or low ground. Nothing appears to have grown out of this attempt to enlarge the ground, unless perhaps the small addition, where the Ministerial Tomb now stands, may have been made at this time.

Attempts to enlarge the ground were made again in 1734, 1738, 1749, and 1751, but without success, the owners of the adjoining land [Samuel Henshaw and William Foye] declining to sell.

FIRST ENLARGEMENT.

In 1760, Madam Elizabeth Foye, and others, conveyed to the Town by a deed of gift, half an acre and six rods of land to enlarge the Burying Ground. The only notice of this grant to be found upon the Records or files of the Town is as follows:

At a Town meeting held July 7, 1760. "Voted to choose a committee to take security of Mrs. Elizabeth Foye of a piece of land joining our Burying Place. Samuel Miller Esq. Benjamin Wadsworth and Mr. Josiah How was chose a committee for the above said purpose; Voted that the same committee return ye hearty Thanks of this Town to Mrs. Elizabeth Foye for a grant of a piece of land to enlarge our Burying Place."

The original deed is lost. The following is a copy of it, taken from the Suffolk Records, Lib. 97, Fol. 132:

Know all men by these presents, that we Elizabeth Foye, widow, Elizabeth Foye, spinster, and Mary Cooper, widow, all of Milton in the County of Suffolk, from a Regard to the Inhabitants of the said Town of Milton, and in consideration of the sum of one shilling paid us do Give, Grant, Bargain and Convey unto the said inhabitants half an Acre and six Rods as staket by Mr. How of Land in Milton aforesaid, heretofore the Estate of Wm. Foye Esq. deceased, the same lying between the now Burying Ground in said Milton, and Land lately sold to Mr. Josiah Howe of said Milton.

To have and to hold the said half an Acre and six rods as staket by Mr How, of Land unto the said Inhabitants for a burying Ground forever.

In witness whereof we hereto set our hands and seals this first day of September, in the thirty-fourth year of his Majestys Reign, Annoque Domini 1760.

The Foye lot is situated on the westerly and southerly sides of the Reedman lot, being bounded westerly by the easterly side of the Central Avenue of the present Ground [Old Cemetery], and extending back some six or seven rods in rear of the Reedman lot.

At the time of the above enlargement the Ground had become filled with graves, and the supposition is that a few burials had already been made upon the Foye Lot.

SECOND ENLARGEMENT.

The next enlargement was made Sept. 15, 1794, by the purchase of three quarters of an acre of land at the rate of 24 pounds per acre; viz.: half an acre and twenty-two and a half rods from the heirs of Deacon How, and seventeen and a half rods from Col. Joseph Vose.

The How Lot is directly in the rear of the Foye Lot, extending back nine rods to the present southerly bounds of the Old Cemetery, and includes also a strip of land ten feet wide on the westerly side of the Burying Ground, "to be reserved for a lane"—which lane is now the Central Avenue.

The Vose Lot is a strip of land about a rod wide on the easterly side of the Foye and How Lots, which was reserved for and is now occupied by Tombs.

THIRD ENLARGEMENT.

April 21, 1837. Francis Amory, Esq., "in consideration of one dollar and divers other good causes," conveyed to the Town of Milton for the purpose of enlarging the "Graveyard" of said Town a Lot of land adjoining the same, containing by estimation one acre and one quarter. This embraces that tract lying between the Central Avenue and the wall recently removed.

FOURTH ENLARGEMENT.

Dec. 11, 1854. The Town purchased of Charles Breck and Thomas Hollis, Jr., eighteen acres and one hundred and sixteen rods of land, for the sum of $1,804.00. This tract lies in the rear and on the westerly side of the Old Cemetery, embracing all of the "Burying place field" and extending through the swamp and over the opposite hill. This new Lot, being long and narrow, and reaching an inconvenient distance from the main entrance, required an additional avenue to the highway; hence the FIFTH ENLARGEMENT.

April, 21, 1858. Joseph McKean Churchill, Esq., "in consideration of the sum of One Hundred and twenty-five dollars, and from love and affection for my native town and the inhabitants thereof, in order to furnish a convenient access to the New Cemetery lately purchased and laid out by said town," conveyed to the Town a lot of land on the easterly side of Gun-Hill Road, containing one acre, and opening the southern part of the Cemetery to Gun-Hill Road.

SIXTH ENLARGEMENT.

For the purpose of straightening the wall on the easterly side of the Cemetery, and bringing the wall of the New Cemetery in line with that of the Old Cemetery, C. M. S. Churchill, Esq., "from regard to his native town and in consideration of one dollar," conveyed to the Town the necessary amount of land, by deed Feb. 10, 1870.

SEVENTH ENLARGEMENT.

At the March meeting, 1874, the Trustees were authorized to purchase twelve acres of land lying on the easterly side of the Cemetery and extending from Center Street to the rear line of the grounds.

The purchase was made at once; the new grounds were enclosed and connected by avenues and paths with the old, and made ready for use.

The whole amount of land now embraced in the Cemetery is as follows:

By survey of Thomas Crehore, 1794,	1 acre, 2 quarters, 18 rods.
Amory, grant, 1837,	1 acre, 1 quarter.
Town purchase, 1854,	18 acres, 2 quarters, 36 rods.
J. M. Churchill, grant, 1858,	1 acre.
C. M. S. Churchill, grant, 1870,	8 rods.
Town purchase, 1874,	12 acres.
<hr/>
Total,	34 acres, 2 quarters, 20 rods.

Here follow a few cases of the action of the fathers for the protection and care of the Burial Place.

1689. "At the Selectmen Meeting on the 9th day of December 1689, we agreed with Enoch Badeock to procure bords and nails, and to fence in our burying place, he using the posts already brought to place for the same use, he being to procure and do as above sd. at mony price, and we do Ingage to pay him the said Badeock in Oates at twelve pence pr bushill, Indian Corn at tow Shillings pr bushill, ry if any, at tow Shillings pr bushill, it is to be understood that the sd. Badeock is to be paid for his stuf as soon as it is brought to the place, before he sit it up." Vol. i. page 104.

1697-8. "At a Town meeting held March 25, 1697-8, Edward Vose, Samuel Miller and John Fenno Jun^r were chosen a Community to agree with and to procure two sides of the burying place fenced with a good sufficient Stone wall of four feet and a half hye, and to fence the other two sides for the present with the ould posts and bords already there."

1761. "Voted, That Mr. Josiah How improve our Burying Place for the space of five years, by feeding of sheep to subdue the bushes and briars that are therein." Vol. ii. page 286.

Also three tombs located in the central part of the Old Cemetery, First Purchase :

FENNO TOMB.—East.

MILLER TOMB.—Middle.

BILLINGS TOMB.—West.

These tombs are the oldest in the grounds, and are supposed to have been built about the year 1719.

At the March meeting, 1719, the town voted, "That Capten John Billing shal have liberty to buld a Tomb in our Buring Place at the direction of the Selectmen."

THE preceding pages have been prepared in order to furnish the Town with a full statement of all that is known, or can be learned, respecting the Cemetery; and also for the purpose of rescuing from oblivion the ancient inscriptions on the tablets of our Fathers.

Respectfully submitted,

A. K. TEELE,
